Will the Doukhobour Mothers Slay Their Children?

Threat of Peter Verigin, Leader of Religious Sect from Russia Now Established in Canada, Suggests Inconceivable Idea, Though His Followers Obey Him Implicitly in All Things—Why Mother Love Would Offset Fanaticism osity should be manifested as a result ter protest against what the sect regards tion. as exorbitant taxation of their persons and properties by the Canadian Government.

And this leader-Peter Verigin by nameis all powerful in the tribe. He has never those except the self-supporting and able

They are a serious, worshipful lot. Their of the entire sect." leader can do no wrong. It is believed in What Doukhobour Means: some quarters-even official quarters-that the children and the aged would certainly be slain if Verigin should give the word. And if he should say to the mothers of the "Go, drown your children in the rivers," no Government, no soldiers, no ulterior or personal force could prevent.

Mother Love Might Save,

For Instinct Is Strongest But there is perhaps some unseen power that would save the lives of the Doukhobour bables. That saving power would be mother love. It is not conceivable that the mothers of children could have at any time columns down to the banks of the streams that rush through their domains in Alberta. Saskatchewan, Manitoba and British Columbia, leading their children or carrying them in arms, to push them down into the swift current. Nor is it conceivable that the Doukhobour mothers would calmly heed the command of Verigin were he to give it.

But they might; even the inconceivable sometimes comes to pass.

Religion is a powerful impetus; religious fanaticism-if it be fanaticism-is a hurtling impulse that is not fleeting. They call themselves descendants of Abrahamand did not Abraham take Isaac out to sachave deterred Abraham.

neying unincumbered, to preach to the torted. world the coming of "The Day of Judgit is found "expedient" to destroy the burdensome young and the feeble aged. They believe firmly that the Day of Judgment is in the offing. It is not far away, they say, and they want to warn the world that it became the accepted leader of the Doumay assemble itself and prepare for the

That is their justification for the suggestion that the children and the infirm be put to death-that it is their call to go out and preach dire warnings to the world.

Abraham's Case Different

Because He Was a Man But would the mothers kill their offspring? Could they? Many things that border upon the impossible are conceivable, but is such a circumstance? Scarcely, It is as inconceivable as is a mother's love. None can comprehend the love of a mother for her child. It is greater than her love for serself. Even Verigin himself, it appears, is not as certain that the mothers would ober his orders as he has been always in the past. He has said to outsiders that his command, if issued, would be for "obedience in principle only"-that he would ask the mothers to slay their children New Testament.

"theoretically." Perhaps this is what he means. But there are some who believe he may issue the dread order in all seriousness.

Abraham undoubtedly would have conbeen disobeyed. He has given warning to strong possibility that he would be dis- this legend, he was taken by the Quakers the Canadian Government that unless some obeyed. Mothers are strong in the love of to England and then to America. relief were effected to relieve the pressure their children and weak in their cleaving of taxation it would be necessary for all to doctrine or creed or command which would take their little ones from them. Records of all times in the kept memobodied to be destroyed; and there is no ries of mankind and the legends prove that reason to doubt that the promise is no no love is so fine, so deep, so great, so enmere threat made as a bluff or for sensa. during, as the love of a mother for her

The report of the suggested plan of The Doukhobours are a Russian religious "Petnishka" has not been taken seriously sect, accounted by some fanatical, which, by a great many who have had their after being persecuted for almost two cen- curiosity excited by it. And yet the returies in Russia, sought refuge in Canada port is true. And on the word of one and settled in Manitoba. There was con- "there is not much doubt that anything who has lived with the Doukhobourg, siderable trouble when the whole 9,000 of Verigin wants his followers to do they them refused to recognize the King of will do, even if it should be the slaying of their own children or self-destruction

Literally 'Spirit Fighter'

The word "Doukhobour" means "spir!t fighter"-"warrior for the Holy Ghost." The sect first appeared in Russia some two hundred years ago. To be more exact the sect first was known in the year 1733. It was formed by a Russian who had been under the influence of a foreigner of obscure origin said to have been a Quaker -who had escaped from Siberia and lived sccretly in the domain of the Government of Kharkoff.

The tenets of the faith even now bear a faint trace of kinship to the Quaker in the ages marched in solemn, purposeful religion, but the present day Doukhobours regard the Quakers as neither better nor than others who assent to an outside creed.

They regard themselves as God's people, as the chosen people. They trace their origin through David, King of Israel, back to Abei, son of Adam, who was killed by his brother Cain, according to the Scriptures.

The truest among the Doukhobours is the leader. He inherits his leadership from his parents. He is the "son of God." He is the "living God" himself. Whatever the leader says is "the word of God." What he does is "the act of God."

In spite of the fact that they trace their rifice him on the mountain top? And lineage through David and Abraham to would be not have offered the body of Isaac Abel, son of Adam, and in spite of the fact up as a sacrifice had not the voice from that that is Scriptural, the Doukhobours the burning bush deterred him? Theology do not take the Scriptures as we have them. holds that none but the hand of God could Through the ages and through their elected isolation they have lost the Bible. No Peter Verigin, known affectionately to his doubt they had it or a part of it at the brothers of the Doukhobours as "Petuish- inception of their faith. But there are few ka," is the breath and voice and embodi- of them who can read now. They live ment of the Omnipotent to them. He must apart to themselves, and certain fragments be obeyed. It would be to them as the of what might have at one time been porvery voice of God were he to command that tions of the Scriptures live in their memthe puerile and the infirm be killed, so that ories. These fragments, inclusive of many the puerie and the start out on their jour- of the Psalms of David, are much dis-

A story illustrating their ignorance of Scripture is that of Verigin's letters from That is what they plan to do in case Siberia to his people in the Russian wars. Banished to Siberia,

But Still Wouldn't Yield Back in the eighties, soon after Verigin khobours, he began to preach the abolition of private property. That was during the period of the sect's greatest prosperity in Russia, and when some of the capitalists among his followers called the attention of Czar Nicholas to the preachments of Veri. did. gin the monarch was only too glad to interfere, and the result was that Verigin was banished to Siberia.

But Verigin would not yield; his powerful will, his inordinate ambition to rule only chafed and increased in his confinement. It was from Siberia that he urged themselves. They protested violently and and was allowed to leave Russia. He has he was accustomed to dress richly and to his followers to carry on denies the results of the second to th his followers to carry on, despite the persecutions at the hands of the Government. He wrote them letters-for he can read and write. While in Siberia he was accustomed te copy the Epistles of Paul and send them home to the Doukhobours as his own mexsages. They never detected this plagiarism because of their illiteracy and because Verigin does not allow them to read the

The Government and the church drove sembled and prepared for the journey to state. But the lands, the buildings, the to the river to baptize them. But before them from place to place, banished their the "promised land." leaders and killed many of them. It was summated the sucrifice of Isaac, his son, only during the reign of Alexander I, that if the voice had not come from the burning they were happy and prosperous. From

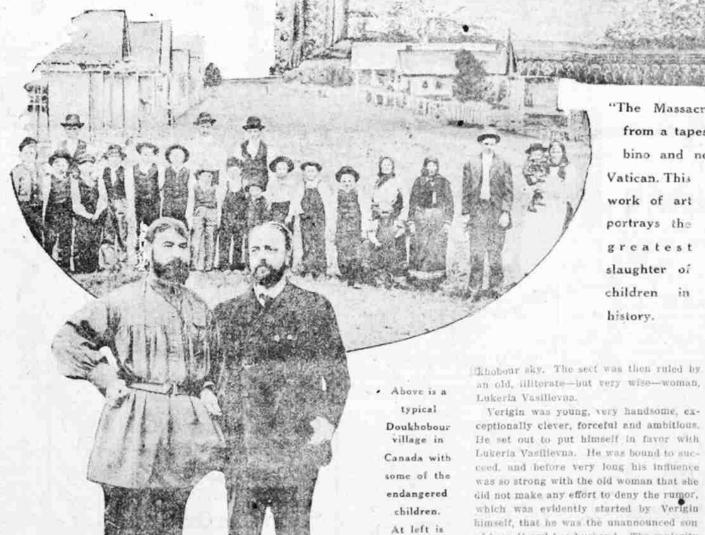

T is natural that much interest and curi- ham was a man. A mother could not and of the River Molochnaya in Taurida, Southwould not have gone so far as Abraham ern Russia. Here they grew rich and prosof the scanty report which came out went. It cannot be accounted possible that perous. But after the accession of Czar of Canada recently that the leader of the the mother of Isaac would have sacrificed Nicholas 1, persecutions of the Doukho-Doukhobours has suggested a plan to regis her son, even at the cost of her own salva- bours began anew with even more merciless vigor. They were forced to relinquish No, "Petuishka" has never been diso- their lands and emigrate to the Caucasus.

beyed. His word is the additional com-The suggested plan is that all the chil- mandment. He believes firmly that he Czar Alexander. He was the only Czar dren of the sect under the age of 10 and would be obeyed should be give this order they recognized. They believe that he himall the aged and infirm be drowned in the that the children and aged be done away self was a Doukhobour, that he died not on with and that the long journeying be be- the throne but escaped from his court and gun to forewarn of the Day of Reckoning. Eved the last days of his life among the But if he gives the order there is the members of the sect. Later, according to

> They recognize no Governments, but they do not preach against them. They only seek not to be interfered with. Their opinion of Governments they express as > "It is not our affair how a merchant in a neighboring town manages his business. Let him manage as he knows how as long as he sells honesty. He is for himself and we are for ourselves. But if he begins to fool us and steal from us, to lie and, what is worse, to cause people trouble and violence, then we will turn away from him and will have nothing to do with him."

Violence is the great antipathetic quality to their creed. They do not believe in war. After Verigin was banished to Siberia Czar Nicholas forced many of his followers into the military service. Verigin's messages from Siberia urged all Doukhobours to to check up on its man power for employ- from Cyprus which resulted in the settlement in the world war it counted the ment in Canada. Doukhobour men of military age available. But the Doukhobours did not so consider after he had been returned from Siberia in amassing riches for himself. One time after a great deal of trouble they won on enemies in his flock. They characterize the ground of religion.

lowers to emigrate from Russia. He gave posefully made his followers emigrate, be- and everywhere he would go a bevy of children and their aged. They are eager to beautiful girls would follow him. his orders in detail and every order was heving that they would be much easier to beautiful girls would follow him. carried out to the letter by the Doukho- rule in a strange setting. He was probably bours. In obeying him they went through right, for Verigin is all powerful now, inconcervable hardship-floggings, imprisonments, court-martials-but the point is

Island of Cyprus, where they remained for own. a good many years, but the climate was not bush and the lamb appeared. But Abra- 1801 to 1819 they lived on the fertile banks favorable to them and they asked Verigin's of Verigin began to glow on the Dou- received it back. But it was right; for desert from the army and many of them permission to find some new home. He sent his permission from bleak Siberia, and When the Canadian Government began in the late '90s they started the exodus

Peter Verigin,

and

Chertokoff,

a confident

of Count

Some time later Verigin joined his flockhim a man with an ambition like that of From Siberia Verigin ordered his fol- Alexander the Great. They say he pur- $3,000). He was very fond of pretty women

Upon arriving in Canada Verigin com- does it, it is right; for 'Petuishka' can do dence points in a sinister direction. pletely abolished private property among no wrong he "promised land."

furnishings, all property, is acquired in he allowed them to go down into the water rushing, roaring river and offer their chil-

It was back in the '80s when the star ready to hold it. They did, and they never consoler"—their "living God"?

"The Massacre of the Innocents," from a tapestry by Raphael of Urbino and now a treasure in the Vatican. This work of art portrays the slaughter of children of herself and her husband. The majority of the Doukhobours readily believed the truth of the rumor, and when Lukerie Vas-ilievna died they accepted Verigin as their

A Russian journalist who lived for several years among the Doukhobours de-

"Verigin is a born leader. Tall and physabilities; clever, forceful and possessing a strong will to rule and dominate. He is not a fanatic. He never says that he is

Although he owns practically everything in the Commune, he is not interested take a great interest in horse racing (he is a great admirer of horses and once lender living such a life. If 'Petuishka'

This same journalist tells how Verigin ically very strong, he has unusual mental sect.

lawful leader.

scribes Verigin;

has ever been able to exert a great influence over Verigin. It might be pointed out that there is history.

no marriage ceremony-as there are no ceremonles of any sort, religious or otherwise-and the man takes a wife as he likes and lives with her, the recognition of the marital state by the members of the sect being sufficient bond.

This same plece is the only person who

Even the Sabine Women

Could Not Have Done It The Sabine women, religious fanatics as they were, would perhaps have never been able to throw their children over the ceptionally clever, forceful and ambitious, high cliff even if the divine thunderbolts He set out to put himself in favor with had not intervened. In the days of Herod, Lukeria Vasilievna. He was bound to suc- when the command went out to destroy all infant children, mothers clutched their was so strong with the old woman that she in the most obscure and impenetrable habes to their hearts and concealed them did not make any effort to deny the rumor. places so that the Roman soldiers might which was evidently started by Verigin never find them. Loyal women of the Roman Empire would rather have been killed themselves than to have had a hair of the head of any of their babes barmed. The state of mind of the Doukhohours to-day is such that would tend to make it more conceivable that they would unhesitantly kill their own children. The war and the Russian revolution have made a tremendous Impression on them. They are extremely radical politically and morally. They believe that Czar Nicholas was punished for his persecution of their

And, finally and most important, they do firmly believe that the "Day of Judgment" is rapidly approaching and they are prethe 'living God,' but he has not the least paring themselves for its coming.

They are wrought up over many things. Some say that they are wholly crazy. Being in this state of mind, and believing that Verigin is the "living God" himself, will they refuse to obey him, whatever his orders and however horrible they may be? The evidence says they will obey. They have always obeyed. They are lost in the is a great number of horses and bald grip of a strange and weird complex. They are poverty stricken and burdened by their to begin the journeying to preach the com-"The Doukhobours did not object to their log of the "Day of Reckoning,"

Indeed there is no denying that the evi-

But there may be something which outweighs the reasonableness of things. Is it march stolcally down to the banks of a dren as sacrifices to a vague siren which he ordered that they give mission is a figurent of the mind of their "earthly they had with them to his niece, who stood is a figurent of the mind of their "earthly they had with them to his niece, who stood is a figurent of the mind of their "earthly they had with them to his niece, who stood is a figurent of the mind of their "earthly they had with them to his niece, who stood is a figurent of the mind of their "earthly they had with them to his niece, who stood is a figurent of the mind of their "earthly they had with them to his niece, who stood is a figurent of the mind of their "earthly they had with them to his niece, who stood is a figurent of the mind of their "earthly they had with them to his niece, who stood is a figurent of the mind of their "earthly they had with them to his niece, who stood is a figurent of the mind of their "earthly they had with them to his niece, who stood is a figurent of the mind of their "earthly they had with them to his niece, who stood is a figurent of the mind of their "earthly they had the

